Supported

Employment Program

The Supported Employment Program provides individuals who have disabilities with the support they need to be successful in the workforce. Employers and communities also benefit from this program by gaining trained employees through:

Specialized job placement

Job coaching

Long-term follow-up

Supported Employment is founded on these basic components:

Individual Choice: Individuals make their own decisions regarding their employment experience.

On-Site Training: Individuals receive both training at the job site by a job coach and mentoring by coworkers.

Natural and/or Ongoing Support: Individuals receive ongoing follow-up services and support from a job coach and/or coworkers and supervisors to ensure long-term success on the job.
